

The City has a long-standing and proud tradition of providing health services to residents in need of primary and preventative care. Cincinnati opened its first health center in 1920.

Today, the Health Centers serve over 35,000 patients annually (135,000 patient visits) and roughly 58% of these patients have no form of private insurance and are ineligible for Medicaid.

City of Cincinnati Primary Care centers focus on keeping Cincinnati residents healthy and well through the provision of services including Adult Medicine, Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Dental, Laboratory, Pharmacy, Woman Infants and Children (WIC), Immunizations, Vaccines for Children (VFC) and more.

The City of Cincinnati operates five primary care centers, one stand-alone dental site and the region's sexually transmitted disease center.

In 2009, a collaboration between the Cincinnati Board of Health and the City of Cincinnati Primary Care Board earned the health centers Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) Look-alike designation.

ELIGIBILITY

Services are provided to residents of the City of Cincinnati without regard to race, color, creed, handicap or national origin. Board of Health policy makes some services available to non-residents under special programs.
